

Conclusion

Congratulations for having reviewed this toolkit and deciding to make the Standard Days Method and CycleBeads part of your reproductive health program. While most programs will find it easiest and most cost-effective to purchase fully assembled CycleBeads from Cycle Technologies, some programs may have reasons for interest in local printing of informational materials.

Other programs may even be considering local assembly or manufacturing of CycleBeads. No matter which option you choose for supplying CycleBeads, we hope that this toolkit can help guide you to make good choices about resource management and that it leads to a successful introduction and a sustainable program.
